

New York's Millions Welcome Lindbergh

Flier Says Reception Is Too Tremendous When Tug Pulls Into The Battery—Police Claim Crowds Were The Greatest That Had Ever Gathered in New York—Disappointed Because He Could Not Fly in "The Spirit of St. Louis."

New York, June 13 (AP)—Charles Lindbergh came back today to the city he left on his great adventure, the first nonstop flight ever made from New York to Paris. He stepped from the city tug Macom at the Battery at 1:20 p. m., after being brought up the bay from Quarantine where he had landed in an amphibian plane after a flight from Washington via Mitchell Field.

Although the official schedule called for a thirty minute run from Quarantine to the Battery, the lacom was passing Governor's island 45 minutes after they picked up Lindbergh.

As the Macom hove in sight the crowds at the Battery burst into such a roar of greeting as that famous welcoming ground had probably never heard before. The sirens on countless craft in the harbor added to the din and the crowd surged forward toward the sea wall as though its every member wished to seize the hero's hand and greet him magnanimously.

Police kept order, men and women shouted out their welcomes and everything available from hats to handkerchiefs and pennants were waved wildly.

As the Macom approached the Battery fireboats began to shower water over the deck guns in salute, and excursion boats crowded with cheering admirers formed a convoy for the city boat.

a. Lindbergh left at 12 m.
b. Lindbergh was at Mitchell Field only two minutes and arrived at a. m. and leaving at noon.
c. Though Lindbergh was accompanied from Washington by 21 other planes, he was the only one that landed, the others circling above the field while he made a quick transfer to the amphibious plane which was waiting for him with engine and with Captain Eaker at the controls.

Gasoline Flow Stopped.

Lindbergh's arrival at Quarantine, where the Macom picked him up, ended the flier's first air journey since his return to America and a journey which might have proved disastrous but for his daring and skill.

As soon as Lindbergh jumped in to the amphibian's cockpit Captain Baker gave her the gas and they were away. The convoy of 21 land planes closed in behind and they were soon out of sight on their way to New York harbor.

He decided to fly from Washington to Mitchell Field, where he changed to an amphibian, in a Curtiss pursuit plane instead of his famous "Spirit of St. Louis." Shortly after taking to the air his gasoline flow stopped and he had to turn on his auxiliary tank, which contained enough gas to carry him 300 miles. Undaunted by this, the agency, Lindbergh continued to fly. He landed at Mitchell Field with the auxiliary tank almost dry.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, after taking a taxi cab to the airport, entered among forty newspaper reporters in a stuffy little cabin of the tug Macon, today tried to tell "the masses" of a New York edition, and to do so had to yell, at times at the top of his voice, to make himself heard above the shrieking whistles of hundreds of tug boats flanking the tiny tug as it pulled up the harbor to the Battery.

Any way," he shouted, speaking reverently. "It's too tremendous."

Welcome Parade Starts.

Charles A. Lindbergh dropped down out of the skies on to the water of lower New York bay at quarantine today after a quick flight from Stockholm and change of destination. He arrived at the quarantine at 11:20 a. m. and was picked up by the tug Macom at 12:21 p. m.

Attaining a height of two thousand feet, the transatlantic flier turned to the northwest, then changed his direction west following two squadrons of the planes from Selfridge Field. He waited until his full complement of planes could take the air.

The last of the planes in the pursuit planes took off at 5:40 p. m. As Lindbergh headed due north and passed immediately over the Carlini

Within a few minutes after his landing in the bay Lindbergh was seen abroad the city tug Macon, the city boat, early decked in, proceeded full speed ahead up Narrows for the Battery. The tug was fitted with craft of all moderns and a

SPOT

There was a little rabbit named Spot. He was a little gray rabbit. You see, over one eye, he had a little round white spot, which was the only part of him not gray, so that when he was a wee bunny he had been given the name of Spot by his family.

Now Spot was a great traveler. His sisters and brothers had moved to other parts of the country, and he was all by himself.

A Great Traveler. He was very fond of travel, so he did a great deal of it.

He would go from one wood to another.

One time he struck a very unfortunate neighborhood.

From outward appearances it was most delightful. Alas, though, he did not know that there was, nearby, a dog.

This dog had the reputation of being very fond of chasing rabbits.

Spot felt quite certain that he had picked out a place where there were no dogs for miles around, and yet there was one less than a quarter of a mile away.

"It didn't take the dog long to find out that Spot had moved to the neighborhood."

The next morning, bright and early, the dog was up. However, Spot was up still earlier.

He had climbed to the top of a hill where he had seen some very fine clover sprouting above the ground.

Suddenly Spot saw the dog starting to run up the hill. Nearby Spot saw a muddy mound.

He rushed for it, and before the dog had time to get up the hill, for it was a long steep one, Spot had burrowed into the mud and patted the part over with his paw, where he had got through it, and there he was safe and sound inside the mud ball.

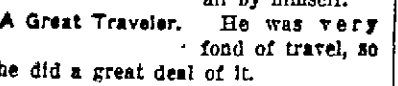

When the dog got to the top of the hill he could see no sign of the rabbit.

He looked everywhere. Of course, it was slightly not inside the mud ball, but the rabbit had one very tiny air hole. And he felt safe, too.

The dog thought he smelled something like a bunny near the muddy mound, but he saw no sign of the rabbit.

The little Spot, who had traveled so much, was too clever for the dog, and after the dog wandered away, disgusted and disappointed, little Spot got out of his hiding place, through which even the dog couldn't sniff at him, and laughed hard at himself.

But that night Spot started off for a new home, as he did not want to run any risks.

GAS BUGGIES—Dream On, Hem.

HAVING STRAIGHTENED OUT ALL THE MECHANICAL KINKS IN THEIR COMPRESSED AIR CAR, HEM AND AMY TAKE A TRIAL TRIP THROUGH THE CLOUDS AND PICK UP A FEW IDEAS FOR BUILDING AIR CASTLES.

A Little thing, a sunny smile, A loving word at morn, And all day long the day shone bright.

The cares of life were made more light, And sweetest hopes were born.

A VARIETY OF DISHES

We think of pork as a winter food, but it will take the place, in the following dishes of other fats:

Pork Cake—Take one cupful of salt pork chopped, cover with one cupful of boiling water, three eggs, one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of raisins, one teaspoonful of soda, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one cupful of dried apples and two cupfuls of dried apples, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful each of cloves and nutmeg. Cook the molasses, dried apple and spices on the back of the stove for three hours, then add the other ingredients and flour to make the desired thickness. Bake in a large loaf.

Broiled Smoked Herring—Cover the herring with boiling water for ten minutes. While the fish is still hot drain and wipe dry and brush with two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one of lemon juice and a dash of paprika. Sprinkle with parsley when ready to serve.

Jellied Chicken—Cut up a four-pound chicken as for fricassee. Put on to cook with one small onion, one bay leaf, one blade of mace, three cloves, pepper and salt to taste. Simmer slowly until the chicken is tender. When done cut it from the bones and skin. Put the bones and skin back into the kettle and simmer an hour. Cover one-fourth of a box of gelatin with a little cold water and let it soak. Add gelatin to the liquor, stir until dissolved, then strain. Add salt and pepper to season. There should be three cupfuls of the liquor when done. The next day remove the fat from the top of the jelly, then pour half of it into a square mold and stand on ice to harden. When firm put a layer of the chicken on top of the jelly, add slices of hard-cooked eggs, using three; sprinkle with seasoning. All are used. Pour over the remainder of the jelly, which should cover the chicken. Let stand on ice overnight before unmolding.

He Saw No Sign of the Rabbit.

And he felt safe, too.

The dog thought he smelled something like a bunny near the muddy mound, but he saw no sign of the rabbit.

The little Spot, who had traveled so much, was too clever for the dog, and after the dog wandered away, disgusted and disappointed, little Spot got out of his hiding place, through which even the dog couldn't sniff at him, and laughed hard at himself.

But that night Spot started off for a new home, as he did not want to run any risks.

One morning Nelly came over with his birthday gift, a weak previous to the proper day, and showed it to him.

Don, who liked surprises, was disappointed and said, "Aw, gee; what 'sh' should it be to me now?"

"So you'll know in time to get me something," declared Nelly frankly.

Explained

A lady was ill and bedridden upon being operated on for appendicitis. When she was better again she asked the doctor what he had found in her appendix. "Well," he replied, looking puzzled, "it was extraordinary. I never found anything like it in an appendix before; there were several small hard peas in it." "Oh," said the lady, "that accounts for our having so sweet peas this year. I must have sown the peas."—London Evening Show

Cat and Nine Lives

The origin of the saying that "a cat has nine lives" is obscure, but it is generally supposed to have originated in ancient Egypt where cats were objects of worship. Faint was the cat-headed goddess of the Egyptians. According to one writer on mythology, this goddess was supposed to have nine lives and probably gave rise to the common expression about cats having nine lives.

Napoleonic "Nap"

The word "nap" used in the sense of "a short sleep" is not of any Anglo-Saxon derivation, as might be supposed; but even its origin to the fact that Napoleon had the power at any time, in any place, of (so to speak) shutting down all the departments of his brain and going immediately to sleep. Thus a short sleep taken at will became known as a "Napoleon," which in due course was shortened to "nap."

Millions Welcome Lindbergh

record in itself. Thousands came from other cities to join in the popular tribute to the great accomplishment of a modest, handsome young man.

Never before in the history of the city did New York hold itself so ready to hail the achievement of any man. A tousled-haired youth of 22 years, who flew from obscurity to world acclaim virtually overnight, was the center of a gigantic wel- come surpassing even those accorded Admiral George Dewey when he returned from Manila Bay in 1898 and General John J. Pershing upon his return from France.

Sharing in New York's welcome was the young flier's mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, Detroit school teacher, who formally joined her son in glory when he was carried in triumph before President Coolidge and other nation's chieftains in Washington Saturday.

Throngs Gather Early.

The time of Colonel Lindbergh's arrival, for days a disputed factor in the elaborate reception planned by official New York, developed a new complication on the eve of his arrival. While the tentative arrangements called for his arrival from the nation's capital at 10 a. m., sponsors of the flight announced last night Colonel Lindbergh would land in the city at 11:30 o'clock.

With this simple statement as the lodestone for the millions of the city, throngs began to gather early along the harbor waterfront eager to be the first to roar a welcome to the youth who, shortened to 33 hours and 29 minutes the time required for the 3,610 mile journey to the city across the sea.

The Harbor Spectacle.

The harbor spectacle, designed as the greatest welcoming pageant in the history of the city, was a vast picture of squadrons of droning airplanes, fleets of every kind of water craft and thousands of well-wishers roaring their greetings.

Landing at Quarantine, Colonel Lindbergh was to receive his first formal welcome to the metropolis from Grover Whalen, chairman of the mayor's welcoming committee, city officials and aeronautical celebrities. There the municipal tug Macom awaited to receive its distinguished guest.

Arriving at the Battery, Colonel Lindbergh was assigned a place with Mr. Whalen in the first automobile in a great parade through the streets of Manhattan. Mrs. Lindbergh was listed as the honor passenger in the second car.

With 10,000 troops plodding a triumphal accompaniment to the roars of the thousands through the Broadway canyon, the parade route led to City Hall where the city's official welcome awaited the young flier.

Through streets of brilliantly decorated buildings and more thousands of cheering spectators, the parade was directed up Fifth avenue to Central Park where the state of New York, through Governor Alfred E. Smith, held out the state medal of valor to the daring adventurer.

A spirit of triumphant holiday pervaded the city for days before, the start of the celebration. Throughout the metropolitan area all talk was of the young man who departed its shores an unknown mail pilot, to return a world hero.

The millions in New York were swollen by thousands of visitors from adjoining states. Railroads ran special trains into the two great metropolitan terminals and motor and water transportation companies reported a heavy increase in travel.

The Program.

Following is the program of New York's reception to Colonel Lindbergh today:

11:30 a. m., daylight saving time. —Lindbergh arrives in seaplane at Quarantine.

Noon—Received on municipal tug Macom and reviews marine parade in harbor.

12:15 p. m.—Military parade starts from Battery.

12:30 p. m.—Lindbergh joins parade at the Battery.

1:00 p. m.—Arrives at City Hall.

Lindbergh Talks Of Pacific Flight

Declares San Francisco To Hawaii Trip Is Practical and Will be Made in a Short Time—Accurate Navigation Methods Necessary.

Washington, June 13 (AP).—A San Francisco to Hawaii flight is practical and will be made in a short time, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh said today, but he warned that the use of accurate navigation methods was highly important.

The New York to Paris aviator in an address at the National Aeronautics Association breakfast given in his honor, expressed the hope that the methods of navigation he used on his transatlantic flight would not be adopted for the Pacific trip.

He pointed out that if he had wandered far off his course on his Atlantic crossing he would have landed in the British Isles or as far south as Spain, but declared such land protection is not afforded in the Pacific.

"If by dead reckoning," he added, "an attempt is made to reach the Hawaiian Islands and the plane drifts even a few miles off the course there are thousands of miles of water beyond the islands which would make it improbable that an aviator would be picked up."

He declared the Pacific flight should not be attempted without radio navigation facilities or an experienced celestial navigator, or both.

JUDGE SHUFELDT DISPOSES OF CASES.

The following were arraigned before Judge Shufeldt this morning in police court:

Metro Hausman, arrested Saturday at Spring street and Broadway by Officer Camp on a charge of public intoxication, pleaded not guilty and had his hearing adjourned until Tuesday morning.

Michael Reilly of Saugerties paid $5 for not being able to produce his registration card when arrested.

Harriet Trainor, arrested Sunday on North street on a charge of disorderly conduct, paid a fine of $5.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Superfluous gabble by the announcers who seem unable to restrain their garrulity was the principal thing that marred much of the Lindbergh program Saturday. Announcers are getting the idea that they are the whole show.

Saturday evening WBBR put on a long yawp, demanding in the name of the great Jehovah and the Continental Congress that the station be allowed to retain the wave length it jumped some time ago and on which it is a nuisance.

Reception Sunday was good all day and was only slightly marred in the evening by static and local interferences. It was one of those nights when every time an electric light was snapped on within a block there was a sound of the skies being rent asunder. Also, there was at times a "whooshing" sound, evidently caused by local interferences. WCAU had a spell of spreading over about a dozen numbers. Chicago stations, notably WBBM, WJJD, WIBO and WCBD were strong and clear and WTAM was exceptionally good. The Atwater Kent program was excellent from WGY.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT CLINTON AVENUE CHURCH.

A most attractive and appropriate setting was given to the Children's Day exercises held Sunday morning at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. The platform was arranged not only with a view to celebrating Children's Day but also Flag Day, which on Tuesday marks the 150th birthday of our nation's flag. There were draped about the platform the various flags used in the evolution towards our present Stars and Stripes, while on a throne banked with flowers, Miss Alice Hayes, as Columbia, was seated, surrounded by a group representative of religion and education presiding over the destinies of little children. The arrangement was by Albert Shultis and Willys Ryder, committee in charge of decoration.

The program presented by the Sunday school was the most interesting in many years. The committee, of which Mrs. Clayton Smith was the chairman, worked hard and effectively to produce a most pleasing and enjoyable group of songs and recitations. Not the least attractive feature of the morning was the baptism of thirteen children.

FIFTY DOLLAR BABIES.

Everybody interested in babies, whether from the personal, statistical or viewing-with-alarm point of view, has been getting worried about the high cost of producing them. Getting "out of the everywhere into the here" has been making undue inroads on the family pocketbooks of those people whose babies would naturally be considered most valuable to the nation's welfare. But it remained for Chicago to do something smart about it.

Chicago has a new luncheon called "The Stork," conducted by women from fashionable and charitable circles for the benefit of the Chicago Lying-In Hospital. Its walls have amusing decorations appropriate to the subject. One is of the hospital itself, ambulances crowding up to an entrance, a procession of mothers wheeling baby buggies away from an opposite exit, the center of the stage held by a dairy wagon. One deals with the time-worn subject of the father presented with twins. One is of a row of cribs, the center one held most attractively by a diminutive ace of spades. All are clean, clever and laughter-provoking.

Several thousand dollars have been made for the hospital in the first few weeks, exclusive of the week when the funds were turned over to the flood sufferers. How long this particular fad will last is problematical. But while it lasts it not only helps in a practical way but serves to turn the attention of thousands of people daily to the need for cutting down the $500 to the $50 baby.

HOOVER AS A FISHERMAN.

In his Atlantic Monthly article, "In Praise of Isaak Walton," Secretary Herbert Hoover writes:

The fishing beauties are much amplified since Isaak Walton, for he did not spend his major life answering a bell. He never got the "jumps" from traffic signals or the price of wheat. The blessings of fishing include not only Edgar Guest's "wash of the soul" with pure air, but they also now include discipline in the equality of men, meekness and inspiration before the works of nature, charity and patience toward tackle-makers and the fish, a mockery of profits and conceals, a quieting of hate and a hushing to ambition, a rejoicing and gladness that you do not have to decide another thing until next week.

This suggests, not only that men in our time are in greater need than ever of the rest and refreshment which are brought into the angler's mind, but that Mr. Hoover, even on the banks of an inviting stream with a rod in his hands, is not quite able to put his cares behind him. This the true fisherman does because he finds the sport—even when bites, to say nothing of catches, are few and far between—so absorbing that his mind is completely lifted out of the daily rut and closed to pursuing cares. Perhaps this is why fishing has been, or is traditionally famed as the favorite sport of poets and philosophers in all ages.

NONE TOO OLD TO LEARN.

It is a misguided notion that "you can't teach an old dog new tricks," if we are to credit Prof. Thorndike of Columbia University, who, after wide experiment, concludes that adult groups ranging from 35 years upward and averaging 42 years learn language, mathematics, etc., a little less rapidly than younger groups averaging 22 years, but that both learn more quickly than they would have as children at the age of 12. Although on the average adult ability to learn slowly declines at the rate of about 1 per cent a year, a sufficient capacity may remain at seventy, and desire largely offsets the decline in ability. It is this greater and more intelligent eagerness that causes both the adult groups mentioned to surpass children in their rate of learning or acquiring knowledge.

Not are the elderly as forceful in matters that really interest and concern them as they and their allies seem often to suppose. Often it is as if an old man forgetting where he had hidden his money, or when he is expected to appear at court, or who are his debtors and creditors, had learned Greek in his old age, and then said, according to the tarch: "I grow old ever learning many things." This ability is found among ordinary as well as among distinguished persons. It is the will to learn, not the ability alone, that accomplishes. Aging adults will be particularly interested in Prof. Thorndike's conclusion that persons under fifty should seldom be deterred from trying to learn anything they really need to learn by the fear that they are too old, and that this is true also, only to a lesser degree, after fifty. In other words, no one is too old to learn what he earnestly desires and is willing to strive to learn.

WORK AND REST.

There were a few, a very few, good things that were discovered during the war.

One, as mentioned before, was the knowledge of heart ailments, and that a heart murmur didn't necessarily mean a weak heart, if the heart muscle and heart reserve were good. And now the matter of fatigue, or tiredness from marching or other exercise, has been learned, and the lesson is worth much to us all.

For instance, it was found that where marching was continued day after day, the reserves of sugars and starches stored in the body became so low that the body tissues became hungry for them and used up a great percentage of the other foods, meats and fats, in manufacturing sugar and starch for the system.

Now when you remember that meats are needed to repair worn parts, and that when fats are eaten with the meat less meat is required, you can see what is going to happen if fat and meat are being converted into sugars, instead of being used to repair the worn parts. The muscles will not be getting the proper amount of repair material from the blood, and will thus become weaker in a shorter time.

After careful experiments it was found that a day of complete rest after any three days' marching, was sufficient to enable the worn muscles to get repaired completely, and start work afresh. In fact it was found that this three days of marching and one day of rest, after a certain period, found the men in better shape. This is just what should be expected because marching acts in a similar manner to any other exercise.

A runner, boxer, swimmer or other athlete, works gradually up to his perfection point, and then rests from his work two to four days before his match or bout. This gives every opportunity to the blood to get rid of wastes, and to replenish tired or worn muscle tissue.

What is the lesson? That a short period of work, needs only a short period of rest. Prolonged work like marching or other heavy work for a few days, needs a longer period of rest.

And yet daily walking, or other daily exercise, will cut down the amount of rest needed, if the exercise is persisted in for some period of time.

We also learn from the above that when heavy work is done, meat and fats should be added to the dietary.

SCHMIDTKONZ PUPILS GIVE PLEASING RECITAL.

Pupils of Miss Lina M. Schmidt-konz gave a piano recital in the parish house of the First Presbyterian Church on Friday evening which was, as the recitals given by Miss Schmidt-konz's pupils always are, a distinctly musical affair. These recitals are practically free from nervous tension as to how pupils will acquit themselves, and are a pleasure even to a seasoned musician.

Miss Schmidt-konz cordially welcomed the large audience. The opening number, a violin solo, was played by Frederick Broadie, who assisted the musicians in making up the pleasing program. Accompanied well by Miss Genevieve Main, he played admirably "Czardas," by Monti.

Miss Schmidt-konz's pupils also bring out a musical tone in their playing that is well worthy of mention.

Woe Genevieve Carter, with a musical temperament out of all proportion to her size, played gracefully "Golden Star Waltz," by Streaborg.

"The Shepherd Boy" (became almost a musical classic), by Wilson, was played with a touch of poetry by June Watson.

"On the Meadow" meant something musically very pleasing as played admirably by James Scott. It might be added that the pupils all had an excellent sense of phrasing.

The next number was a very ambitious one, but was also one of the finest of the evening. Marjorie Greene and Genevieve Main played the Concerto in G Minor, "Allegro" (2 pianos, 4 hands), by Mendelssohn, and played it remarkably well.

Little Ruth Flicker played two numbers that seemed so suited to her—it was no wonder she played them so excellently—"Summer," by Lichner and "Butterflies" by Leck.

Robert Lison did a quite unusual thing by making a really musical number out of the usually showy "Tarentelle," by Picconka.

Genevieve Main played the famous "Kamencol-Ostrow," No. 23, by Rubinstein, with much technical skill and fine interpretation.

"The Polish Dance" by Scharwenka, was the sort of spirited composition that would appeal to a youth, and Frank Matthews did full justice to it.

Another ambitious number well rendered was the Bachman's "Prelude in C sharp Minor," played by Lillian Handler.

A classic composition that always appeals both to one's musical and romantic sense is what is known as Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," in three movements. Miss Marjorie Greene played it with excellent musicianship.

The program was varied at this point by another solo, "Caprice Venetian," by Kreisler, played by Mr. Broadie, accompanied by Miss Main.

Gram Quincy gave two piano numbers widely divergent in character, and musical sense, and played both very well. "Spanish Dance," Op. 12, No. 2, by Moszkowski, and Chopin's "Prelude in C Minor."

The admirable program closed with a fine rendition of Schumann's "Adagio," played by Miss Anna Schindler.

True Perfumes

To distinguish perfume truly take the stopper from each crystal flagon and for a moment move it gently back and forth until the preservative alcohol has evaporated, and only the essence remains. It is then one is greeted by the subtle call of the pure "odeur," and the fragrance of one's choice becomes unmistakable.

Mythology's Meaning

Mythology may be described as a collection of fables and traditions referring to the forces of nature, to national heroes and to the pagan gods. The nature-myths are primitive attempts to explain the processes of nature, and may be looked upon as the beginning of natural science. The heromorphs are akin to sacred mythology.

Union College
Confers Degrees

President of Toronto University Tells Graduates to Take Sensible View of Worth of Their Degrees and Not to Boast.

Schenectady, N. Y., June 13 (AP).—Dr. Charles Alexander Richmond, president of Union College, conferred degrees on a class of 126 men at the 121st commencement today. In addition, seventeen graduates of Albany Medical College received the degree of Doctor of Medicine and eleven students at Union were awarded master degrees.

President Richmond gave honorary degrees to the following:

Sir Robert Alexander Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, and Dr. Abbott Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, doctor of laws.

Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of Park Avenue Baptist Church, New York, Rev. Henry Schlosser of Guilford, Conn., class of 1881, and Rev. William Thomas Cherry of Ridley Park, Pa., class of 1897, doctor of divinity.

William David Coolidge, assistant director of the research laboratory of the General Electric Company, doctor of science.

James Wingate, class of 1897, New York state director of motion pictures, and George Herbert Daley, class of 1892, sporting editor of the New York World, master of arts.

Sir Robert Alexander Falconer, who delivered the chancellor's address at the exercises, told the graduating students to be thankful for their degrees and to take a sensible view of their worth.

"The degree of B. A.," he said, "is meant for people of average ability who have had as you have, the privilege of attending a good college for four years and have used that privilege reasonably well. It signifies that you have had better opportunities than most for studying literature, history and the sciences; that you have enjoyed the company of like-minded young men and women, have made among them some firm friends, and have had the chance to become more at ease than many others in the society of people who are called educated. All this is privilege. It is nothing to boast about. You should be thankful for this B. A. and you should have a sensible view of its worth."

Remember this: All over the United States there are multitudes of people who envy you your privilege. They would give relatively much more than many of you have given to get it, but the chance has been denied them, and they look from a distance, as it were, upon fields which to them, strangers forever barred an entrance, seem wondrously pleasant and fertile. Had they only been served heirs to such an intellectual estate how they with gladness would have cultivated it. But now from without perhaps they regret more their inability to enter than those within rejoice in their possession. And yet it is not true as in the case of material wealth, that the havenots sometimes wish to take away from those who have, turn communists, and let all share alike. You are not objects of envious jealousy because you have this spiritual possession. Use it right for the good of all and you will be deemed fortunate by all."

How do you spend your money?

IF YOU were considering the purchase of stocks and bonds, you'd do a lot of studying before you actually parted with your money! You'd want to know about the company—its policy—its past record. . . .

YET that money represents only your surplus. Every day you spend money—almost all your earnings—upon the requisites of life.

ARE you less wise with the greater part of your money than with the smaller share?

YOU can select the daily products you buy as carefully as your most conservative investments. In every store you'll find products that you know well. Friendly names that have stood for first quality many years. Names of products that millions of people have bought, and bought again and again. Products that these people, by their steady patronage, have approved from coast to coast.

THEY are the advertised products. They must be full value—first quality, or they couldn't satisfy so many millions of people year after year!

THE other products you see are strangers. You don't know them. Few people do. They may be good—they may not. No manufacturer holds them up to the pitiless light of publicity. They are just there . . . hopelessly unknown—the "speculations" of the world of merchandise.

Invest your money for every-day things as carefully as you make investments. Select advertised goods.

Quebec's Rule Is Bottle at a Time

System of Liquor Control Varies in Each of Seven Canadian Provinces—Only Two Provinces Are Dry.

Ottawa, June 13 (AP).—Canada now has provincial government liquor control systems in seven of her nine provinces. The latest to join the ranks of the "wets" are Ontario and New Brunswick; while government control has been in operation in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec and British Columbia for at least a year in each instance. The only two provinces functioning under prohibition laws are Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, both bordering on the Atlantic.

The system of control varies in the different provinces in respect to the quantity of spirits purchasable, the operation of beer parlors, the necessity for permits to purchase, the granting of club and canteen licenses and control of liquor advertising.

"A bottle at a time" is the rule at government stores in Quebec, but in Alberta and British Columbia unlimited quantities of spirits may be bought. Saskatchewan permits the sale of a quart per day to an individual, and Manitoba 12 quarts per week. In Ontario, the quantities have not yet been determined or limited.

Sale of Beer and Wine.

Quebec, Alberta and British Columbia allow the sale of beer by the glass, "beer parlors" being in operation in each of these provinces. In Saskatchewan, beer is sold in sealed packages in ninety-five beer parlors operated by the government, with a limitation as to quantity of two gallons per day. Manitoba allows the sale of beer in sealed packages in "beer depots" operated by breweries, without limitation as to the quantity which may be purchased. In Ontario, beer is sold in sealed packages in government shops, without limitation as yet as to quantity.

Wines are sold in government stores in all the provinces, with the exception of Quebec, where this beverage may be purchased at hotels and restaurants.

Permits and Licenses.

Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and British Columbia require the purchase of permits, in the former two provinces at a cost of $1 each and in the remaining two on payment of a fee of $2 annually. In Saskatchewan, permits to purchase are required only where extra large quantities of liquor goods are bought; while none are required in Ontario.

Club licenses have been granted Quebec, Alberta and British Columbia. In Quebec, a club license permits the sale of beer and liquor, but in Alberta liquor sold in clubs under club permits cannot be disposed of for gain. In the case of British Columbia, a member of a club which has a club license may have his own liquor served.

Canteen licenses have been issued in British Columbia to the number of 13 approximately, while a total of about 1,400 banquet permits have been issued in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Quebec and British Columbia.

In all the provinces, with the exception of Ontario, where there is a prohibitory provision, liquor advertising is permitted under control of the provincial liquor board.

NEW METHODS IN JAM AND JELLY MAKING

A special class in jam and jelly making has been arranged for Thursday, June 16, at 7:30 o'clock, in the auditorium at 5 Field Court by Miss Nellie Davenport, home service director for the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. The services of Miss Jane K. Rittenhouse, an expert in jam and jelly making, have been obtained. Miss Rittenhouse plans to demonstrate mint and grape jellies, besides the making of jam, and at this season, when the housewife is planning her supply of "sweets" for the coming year, these lessons are sure to prove helpful.

Jams and jellies are the most healthful solution to the family's desire for sweets, and with the latest methods as demonstrated by Miss Rittenhouse they require only two minutes' boiling, retaining their natural flavor and color, without the waste of the long period of boiling. There need be no doubt of the success of jelly making, and canned and dried fruits, bottled fruit juices and fruit syrups, and fruits that are really ripe may be used as successfully as those ordinarily thought of as "fit for jelly making" with the old-time methods.

There will be no charge for attendance in this class, and it is hoped that many women of Kingston and vicinity will avail themselves of this opportunity on Thursday.

Vacation time is almost here; the open spaces beckon. And though I hear them calling me, I'll have to work, I reckon. There's one prerequisite to fun that a vacation offers—Money's the magic "Sesame", and I long to spend a week or two on some delightful beach. But luxuries and laziness are far beyond my reach; I can't acquire a coat of healthy tan, I ween. Must first accumulate a lot of color called "long green".

Or you'd have noticed that she was looking at me with a look that was shockingly wicked. I watched her make a cake just now.

If I'd a pair of legs I'd run away—oh, dear, oh, dear! How she did beat the eggs. Nor was that all, remember, please—The truth I tell to you—For with our own two eyes I saw Her stone the bathtub, too! And afterwards—a dreadful sight—I felt inclined to scream—The cruel creature took a fork And soundly whipped the cream! Now you can wonder that my nerves Have rather given way? ## Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

Leaders of both major leagues have suffered setbacks in a hair trigger set of see-saw ball games although still in the lead. No less than five of the seven games yesterday were won by a margin of a single run and most of those were decided in the final inning or two.

While the Pirates were brought down from behind by a stirring Robin rally, the Yanks were beaten from in front by a seven-run Indian lead piled up in the first two frames.

A rookie Robin pitcher was the hero of the fray in which his club felled the league leaders. Oddly enough the score of 11 to 10 was the same by which the Robins beat the same team the day before. This time it was a single in the eighth from the bat of the young relief pitcher, Norman Platt, that scored the winning run.

In trying to field Barrett's line drive in the crucial eighth inning, Pie Traynor, crack Pittsburgh third baseman, split a finger. The injury may keep him out of the lineup for a week.

In the Yankee game Babe Ruth holed out his 21st home run, going ahead of 1921, his record year. No one was on. In spite of a second circuit wallop from the bat of Pipgras, relief pitcher, the Yanks could not quite wipe out that early Cleveland lead and lost by 8 to 7. A bit over-mexious in the 9th with the game at stake, the Babe swung hard at one of Mike's curves and missed—his third strike.

Cardinals and Phillies waged another nip and tuck battle not decided until the last of the ninth. Although that hit almost 2 to 1 the Cards on then by 5 to 4 on Lester Bell's home run.

Relief pitchers were having a big day. Added to the names of Plitt and Pipgras was that of Carroll of the Tigers who like them supplied fresh hitting punch when needed most. Pitching in three runs and scoring twice himself, Carroll helped his team win its fifth straight game, this one at the expense of Boston by the apparently popular score of 11 to 10.

Chicago's two second place clubs, the White Sox and the Cubs, are having mingled fortunes. While the White Sox dropped their second game to the Senators by 6 to 1, the Cubs crowded the Pirates for first place with their eighth straight victory. Earl Webb, a McGraw discard, stepped to beat the Giants by a single in the eighth which pushed across the sliding run to make it 7 to 6.

Shutout ball pitched by Genewich of the Boston Braves disposed of the struggling Reds by 4 to 1.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 13 (R).—Four boatloads of Cornell oarsmen will leave Ithaca on Wednesday for Poughkeepsie where they will compete in the Intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson river June 29: Coach James Wray has selected 20 varsity and junior varsity oarsmen, 12 freshmen sweep swimmers and four coxswains as the Red and White representatives in the annual classic.

The crews will be quartered at the McGlynn Cottage, just off the Vassar College campus, in Arlington, a suburb of Poughkeepsie. They will occupy the Cornell boathouse on the Highland side of the river at The Oakes.

After the Harvard races here two weeks ago, Coach Wray made several shifts in his varsity and junior boats, indicating that he was not satisfied with the showing against the Crimson, although the Jay-Ves combination was victorious. The recent Boschon, who had been promoted from the third boat to No. 6 in the junior varsity, to No. 6 in the varsity, the position he held in the 926 varsity shell. Allen at No. 6 in the first boat went to No. 4. Hopper at No. 4 going to the junior varsity. O'Shea and Smith were tried out at No. 3 in place of Craig in the varsity boating, while Fisher alternated with Francis as stroke. With Fisher in the pacemaking seat, Francis occupied No. 2, repudiating Commodore Drex.

These changes are not regarded as permanent and it is unlikely that Wray will make his final choices until just before the races at Pough-

The following men will make the trip to Ponkhekepsle:
Varsity and Junior Varsity: Drew, Asbeson, Allen, Francis, Callahan, Woodward, O'Shea, Jarvis, Fisher, Cook, Hopper, Davenport, Butler, Smith, Newton, Abell, Woertz, Spelman, Todd and Abbott.
Freshmen: Denty, Mann, Thompson, Pieri, Nicholson, Aikellinger, Baumacher, Shoomaker, Roth, Wikston, Swager and Ranker.
The coxswains are Walker, varsity; Kroch, junior varsity; Joyce, and boat; and Bartley, freshmen.

The Kingston All-Star Club which is going at a very fast clip among semi-pro circles gave the Beckwith Club of Poughkeepsie a lacing Sunday at Grindle Park, Poughkeepsie by a 13-2 score. The down river club, which has the reputation of being very fast furnished little opposition after the second frame. This is one of the two defeats the Beckwiths have received this season.

Hank Smedes, local catcher, got a very bad injury to his finger in the eighth inning. Hank has to get an X-ray taken to see if it is broken. Merritt took Smedes place behind the plate for the ninth frame.

On the sacks, Walt Black hit for the enroute cut.

Cragan, the local twirler held the Beckwith Club to nine scattered bingles. In the pitches Hank had them eating out of his hand.

Hendon, a new comer to the Bridge City Club, seemed as if he was going to hold the locals in check but they came to him in the sixth and from behind the All-Star Club had things their own way.

As the local club has been doing in all their games they got the first score in the second frame after Merrett walked. Walt Black got one of the tenacious hooks for a home run drive a centerfield sending two runs over for the local club. In the down downer's half of the second they tied the score on hits by Steele, Ratka and Luce. It was a nice ball game when until the sixth frame when the local club decided to go after Hendon. Three hits, a walk and a sacrifice this inning gave the All-Stars three more runs. A three burger. As

The All-Star Club proved again today what calibre of baseball they are in play. They have now given two of the fastest semi-pro clubs around a decisive severe lashing. The Mid-Country Grays were victims last night by a 11-2 score. The victory today makes five wins out of the games they have played this season. In all of the games won the Stars have beaten their opponents

Next Saturday the All-Stars will go to Poughkeepsie again, this time will be against the Hudson River Hospital. This club is composed of McDermott, Foblan, Papanicolaou, Nuhn and several other well known ball players.

Sunday the locals will travel to Poughkeepsie to play the club representing that place.

The closing exercises of the Bonifacio school took place Friday evening. Long before the hour of beginning, the school house was filled with the parents and friends of the pupils. Many of those unable to gain admission took position near the windows. The pupils took their parts creditably and reflected the excellent training given them by their teacher, E. W. Gillette.

The program was educational. There is no doubt but that the children received more lasting knowledge of the Civil War by the dramatization of the "Civil War Days" than could have been secured from a month's study of dry isolated facts. The boys and girls of this school are shown themselves to be interested in doing their best and are to be congratulated on their successful program. There was a splendid cooperation on the part of the parents and friends of the school.

Set New Record In Planting Shad

More Than Three Million Placed In the Hudson This Spring by State Conservation Department.

Albany, June 13.—Exceptionally favorable conditions this spring enabled the Conservation Department to plant in the Hudson river 3,032,875 shad fry; the planting to be completed this week. This is fifty per cent more than were planted last year and more than twice as many as were planted in any preceding year since the Department began its efforts to improve shad fishing in the Hudson river.

Shad fishing in the Hudson has been falling off for a number of years and about six years ago the Conservation Department began planting to see if it would not be possible to bring Hudson river shad back to something like their old time abundance. Each year the department bought from shad fishermen as many eggs as possible, hatched them out in the Lillingthorpe hatchery and planted them in the river.

In 1922 there were planted 1,056,875; in 1923, 1,406,000; in 1924, 1,282,500; in 1925, 1,906,400; and in 1926, 2,014,722.

This year the department bought all the shad eggs that the fishermen had for sale and hoped to bring the total planting up to two and one-half million. They succeeded in reaching this figure and exceeding it by more than half a million, so that this year's planting is the largest ever made, and with the improvement of fish planting methods, it is expected that with the continuation of the present efforts it will result in a material improvement in shad fishing in the Hudson river.

India Wearing Shoes

Persons of the upper class only wore shoes in India until recently, but at the present time shoes are sent from Europe in rather large numbers. And their use has become quite general in all parts of the country. At first the natives showed no inclination to keep their shoes in an orderly appearance, but later they became addicted to the use of shoe blacking and the wearer of European footwear now takes pride in maintaining an immaculate finish on his shoes.

New York—Everyone knows that jewelry does not have to be precious to be valuable, from the decorative standpoint. us one year ago today, June 12,

Through all pain at times he'd smile
And when the angels called him home
He smiled farewell to earth.
Heaven retained now our treasure.
Earth the lovely casket keeps.
And the sunbeams here to linger
Where our sainted brother sleeps.
Death has robbed us of our dear one,
Of the one we loved so well.
Taken from this land of sorrow
Safely home with him to dwell.

A party of nineteen people from Poughkeepsie, Middletown and Kingston offices of Berry & Company, Inc., investment bankers, inspected the new Broadway Theatre and attended the first performance on Friday evening. In congratulating Mr. Lazarus, they voiced their opinion that it was one of the finest theatres they knew of outside of New York city, and were glad that they had a part in making possible this project by underwriting the first closed mortgage of $250,000 and they are very gratified in the fact that the new theatre is proving such a success and will greatly add to the improvement and up-building of the city in general. Afterward the party visited the banquet room of the Adams restaurant and all enjoyed a dinner.

MOUNDS MAY HOLD SECRETS OF PAST

Camp Sites in Texas Interest Anthropologists.

Camp sites thousands of years old on the plains of Texas and ancient funeral mounds in the wooded regions of the state may hold the secret of the relations of three of the greatest Indian civilizations ever on the American continent.

The Archaes of ancient Mexico, the pueblo dwellers of southwest United States and the mysterious mound builders of the Mississippi valley, form a triangle at the apex of which lie the remains of a little-known culture of prehistoric Texas, says Dr. J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology of the University of Texas.

Ancient camp sites known as the "Burn Rock Mounds," are found on the plains and prairies of Texas along streams and water holes, Doctor Pearce says. These mounds are from four to five feet high and are made up of superheated limestone, with bones and other kitchen refuse. No where else in the world are mounds of just this type found, says Doctor Pearce, who has studied some of these camp sites. He found not only the bones of many animals and birds, such as the buffalo, deer and turkey, but also many human leg bones split for getting at the marrow. These Indians, with their at least occasional taste for human flesh, must have built one fire on top of another until, after thousands of feasts cooked on limestone slabs, the mounds piled up.

There is no doubt of their great antiquity, Doctor Pearce believes, because many of the mounds contain as much as 1,500 cubic yards of refuse, and one cubic yard of material piled up in a year is a fair estimate. The chances are that they are still much older than this accumulation rate would indicate, because the Indians were a nomadic race and the camp sites may only have been occupied for a few weeks all told in a year. The Texas Indians of historic times knew nothing of these mounds or where they came from, and they were no longer used when the white man arrived. Doctor Pearce believes that their beginnings may go back from 2,000 to possibly 5,000 years.

Another group of prehistoric Texas Indians had established a civilization in the wooded parts of the state and built mounds in which to bury their dead. They were clever potters and rivalled the earthenware of the Mississippi valley mound builders.

A study of the remains of these two civilizations might yield valuable data on the migrations and origins of early American cultures, Doctor Pearce says. Science Service Bulletin.

Putting It Low

Some one in a London suburb is advertising a "rather nice flat." Modest, isn't it? And clever, for a good many people who want nice flats are attracted more by understatement than by exaggeration. If the example were to be followed we should see advertisements of houses "fairly convenient," motor cars "moderately well built," opera cloaks "not too bad," and cigarettes with "a pretty good flavor."—London Daily Chronicle.

Too Good

A middle-aged childless farmer and his wife resorted to prayer, that their loneliness might be relieved. After a time they were receiving congratulations on the birth of triplets. "Prayers are always answered!" exclaimed a piously enthusiastic neighbor. "Yes, but I never prayed for no bumper crop like that," replied the farmer.

Unusual Things For Graduation and Wedding Gifts

It's such a relief to find at Oppenheimer Bros. gifts distinctly apart from the common-place. Gifts picked up far from the beaten paths of commerce. An individual piece here—a few choice bits there—small wonder our store breathes a distinction singularly its own.
